BLAZE PERILS 200 ON 'COMET'

Stop Crack New Haven Train in Dedham Field

Fire swept The Comet, the New Haven's mile-a-minute streamlined train, as it streaked towards Boston from Providence at noon today.

Flames in the two Diesel motors burst out of the first car and flashed down the sides of the silver coaches, imperiling the train's 200 passengers.

Engineer Louis Thayer brought the train to a stop in the midst of the Dedham-Canton meadows, and Conductor J. T. Dervan superintended the unloading of the passengers, who were herded several hundred yards down the track.

Thayer and the train crew then attacked the blaze with extinguishers.

The Dedham fire department raced three miles across country, and its members then ran almost another mile over the meadows, carrying extinguishers.

By the time they reached the scene, the blaze was extinguished.

Passengers were then reloaded on the Comet train which was pushed into Readville by a freight train, which had puffed onto the scene in the midst of the excitement.

Buses and taxicabs, mobilized at South Station, speeded to Dedham to pick up the passengers, but were rerouted to Readville when it was learned they had gone on.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

BRITISH LOAN FOR ALLIES

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—The government introduced a bill in Parliament today to provide a huge fund, probably $468,000,000, to provide credit for Britain's allies for arms.

The government's move was approved at last night's cabinet meeting and was said to be intended primarily to permit Poland, Rumania, Greece and Turkey to place large orders with British merchants and industrialists.

The new bill is an extension of a measure adopted last spring providing a $46,800,000 export credit for political rather than purely commercial purposes. This was in addition to $351,000,000 already voted for regular export credits.

OTHER MOVES WEIGHED

Other moves reported in some quarters to be under consideration by the government were an explicit statement by Prime Minister Chamberlain, perhaps tomorrow in Commons, on Britain's position toward Dansig, and the dispatch of Royal Air Force squadrons to countries of the British-French front to show off Britain's new air power.

The government was consulting both Poland and France on the phraseology of the declaration, but it was expected to be unilateral rather than a three-power statement.

Moves to reinforce such a declaration and to provide definite assistance to countries in the British-French group in preparing their defenses also were reported under consideration.

One was the extension of export credit facilities to enable those countries to buy arms and munitions in Britain, including surplus airplane stocks.

A second was the dispatch of Royal Air force squadrons to France and perhaps also to Poland and Rumania, both as a display of Britain's new air might and of her determination to use it on the continent.

Quincy Man Killed By Freight Train

A 57-year-old steamfitter was killed today when struck by a freighth train in uincy freight yards. The victim was identified as David arner, Penn street, South Quincy.

According to police, Warner, who is unmarried, had just purchased a piece of lead pipe at a warehouse near the freight yards and was returning to his job when struck.

President's Mother Departs for Europe

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Mrs. ames Roosevelt, mother of the President, sailed today for her antual visit with her sister, Mrs. Dora Delano Forbes, who lives in Paris. Mrs. Eleanr. Roosevelt, the President's wife, was at the pier to see her sail.

Another passenger on the Ile De France was Dr. Alexis Carrel, the French scientists, who worked with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh on an "artificial heart."

BAY STATE WPA MEN JOIN NATIONAL WALKOUT

First Massachusetts walkouts in a threatened national strike of WPA workers in protest against longer hours and a reduced pay rate were reported today by Colonel McDonough, state WPA head.

Colonel McDonough said an early check of Massachusetts points disclosed that 40 workers had walked out in Lowell and six in Springfield, but more are anticipated.

At the same time he said there will be a slash of 6730 WPA workers from the rolls next Monday, forced by the reduction in the budget for Massachusetts. Of that number, nearly 1600 will be dropped in Boston.

THOUSANDS WALK OUT

This will bring the number of Massachusetts WPA workers from the present figure of 97,770 down to 91,040.

Although state WPA headquarters stuck to 46 as the total of those absent, city officials in Lawrence announced 100 carpenters, painters, bricklayers, cement-finishers, electricians and other tradesman had quit all school repair projects in that city.

City officials said the strikers also included several steam shovel operators engaged in bridge repair projects.

Walkouts by thousands of WPA workers throughout the nation began yesterday—apparently spontaneously—when all classes were informed that under terms of the new federal relief bill they would work 130 hours a month instead of from 50 to 80, for substantially the same monthly wage.

Previously skilled workmen received the prevailing basic union hourly wage.

Under the new schedule common

Showers May Break Another Scorcher

Slight breezes and occasional cloud patches brought but little relief to a sweltering city today in a heat wave which already has claimed five lives. A measure of relief was promised through showers tonight and tomorrow, and slightly lower temperatures.

The mercury started today's climb early, but remained about 3 degrees under yesterday, which was the second day in succession to show readings of higher than 90 degrees.

Mrs. Eva Gardikes of Spring street, Brockton, Arthur LaFrance, 13, of Leminster and Ernest C. Ross, 71, of Berlin, who died in Hudson, were victims of prostrations or heart attacks induced by the high temperature.

Also dead were Mrs. Margaret Flynn, 85, of Adams avenue, Everett, a blind woman who was killed as she fell from the roof of her piazza when she stepped out for relief from the heat, and a man thought to be Leonard Pace, 23, of Upper Darby, Penna., drowned at World War Memorial park while swimming.

Pace's body was still sought by harbor police today. Tentative identification was made from papers found in a wallet, discovered in his clothing left on shore.

Beaches were thronged, with 125,000 persons at Revere, 100,000 at Nantasket and 30,000 at Carson beach. More than 10,000 were recorded by the L street bath house turnstiles.

Cutter Races to Aid Drifting Hub Yacht

With five Greater Bostonians aboard, the 58-foot auxiliary schooner Lorelei was adrift today, 200 miles northeast of Boston, her motors disabled, according to radio messages from the freighter Gypsum Queen.

Ordered from Boston, the coast guard cutter Cayuga left Provincetown to go to the aid of the helpless pleasure cruiser.

Owner and captain of Lorelei is Herman Arendtz, Jr., 25, of Henry street, Cambridge, who conducts a boat-building business at Lunenburg, N. S.

With him on the craft are his wife; their five-year-old son, Herman Arendtz, III; the captain's brother, Frederick Arendtz, 21, of Woodworth street, Neponset, and one crew member.

The party left Boston last Christmas for a cruise to Florida, according to a sister, Miss Winifred Arendtz of Woodworth street, Dorchester.

Two months ago they started north from Florida in easy stages and were last heard from, the sister said, when they put in at New Bedford on their way to Nova Scotia.

Winifred expected them back in Boston "almost any day now," she said.

The Arendtz brothers are sons of Dr. Herman F. Arendtz, staff economist of the United Business Service, lecturer in economics at Northeastern University and formerly an economist and monetary expert at Harvard.

FARR MUST FACE LOVE BALM SUIT BY HUB MODEL

Rogers N. Farr, 43, Boston business executive, today was under court order to answer interrogatories in what may be the last of Massachusetts heart balm suits—a $100,000 action brought by Helen Alvord, beautiful Back Bay model.

The impending litigation was revealed when Judge Wilford D. Gray of Suffolk Superior Court refused to dismiss the suit and ordered the defendant to file answers.

Judge Gray permitted the suit to stand for trial although breach of promise suits were outlawed in this state last September. He ruled the alleged promise to wed Rogers N. Farr was made prior to that date, repudiated since and that suit was brought within 90 days of repudiation.

The suit was quietly filed on June 5 last, and the following day papers in the case were ordered impounded by Judge Abraham Pinanski at the request of Atty. William T. McCarthy, counsel for Farr.

McCarthy then filed a demurrer, but Atty. Nathan Fink for the plaintiff was able to convince Judge Gray that she was justified in bringing the action, thereby winning the first skirmish.

Farr secured a divorce from his wife, Sarah C. Farr, daughter of a New York politician, on May 16, 1930, at Chihuahua City, Mexico.

According to the interrogatories filed by Miss Alvord, she met Farr two years later.

"Did you live as Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Farr for about one year at No. — Beacon st., Boston?" was one question to which the plaintiff seeks an answer.

"Did you ever promise to marry the plaintiff," was another.

"Did you ever introduce or hold out to persons that she was your wife?" the plaintiff went on to ask.

"Did you instruct Boston stores to close any accounts of Mrs. Rogers N. Farr in February of 1939?" she wanted to know.

Another question which the court has ordered Farr to answer was:

"What were your relations with

Refugee Ship Burns, All Safe

JERUSALEM, July 6 (AP)—Reports reaching here today said an unnamed ship carrying Jews intending to enter Palestine as illegal immigrants had burned near Greek Mediterranean islands.

The passengers and crew were saved by an Italian warship, the reports said. The Jews were described as being from Greater Germany and were returned to their port of embarkation.

(In London, Lloyd's reported the Panamanian motorship Rim, bound from Constanza, Rumania, and Rhodes to Palestine with 800 passengers, burned last Monday off Symi Island. All aboard were saved and returned to Rhodes.)

Name Boston Doctor In Suit for Divorce

Dr. Maurice A. Barton, noted Boston physician, was named today as co-respondent in a cross-suit for divorce filed in Worcester probate court by Dr. Werner Kaufmann, Northbridge.

Last April 21, Mrs. Marianne H. Kaufmann, also of Northbridge, filed in the same court a divorce suit, charging Dr. Kaufmann with cruel and abusive treatment.

At that time, Judge Harry H. Atwood allowed an attachment of $50,000 to issue against Dr. Kaufmann's property.

There also is a bill in equity pending at Worcester in the matter of ownership of stocks held by the Kaufmann couple.

In his cross-suit, the Northbridge doctor charges his wife with indiscretions with Dr. Barton, and gives as one specific date January 31, 1938, at Pass-a-Grille, Fla.

The Kaufmanns were married May 20, 1932 in New York and are the parents of twins, Bert W. and Joan Claire Kaufmann, born in 1934.

Whittaker declined to reveal the nature of his communication, but he did assert his weight had dropped from 192 pounds to 171.

WALLY BEERY 'BIG SOFTY'

CAROL ANN WALLACE BEERY

HOLLYWOOD, July 6 (AP)—That big and rough Wallace Beery, the actor who once trained elephants, admits he has gone completely daffy over a young lady named Carol Ann.

Carol Ann hails from Roanoke, Va., and she has been the center of attention in the Beery household for nearly eight of her nine years. There is no doubt that Beery has submerged his own necessary actor ego to think about and look after the baby he adopted when she was nine months.

When he tells about her and his plans for her, as he did today, he beams proudly, talks enthusiastically and affectionately. He is different then from the screen Beery.

Some day Carol Ann will be worth a great deal of money.

Beery, who is a very competent dollar saver, is seeing to that. First he is starting to work on an estate in her name and to this end he had himself appointed her guardian yesterday.

"We're just getting started on that fund," said Beery. "She's got about $10,000 now, but she's gonna work in the movies pretty soon and I'm gonna see that she gets a good contract and that she saves her money.

"By the time she's of age she ought to be worth, well, anyways, a quarter of a million dollars. I want her to have at least that much.

"And, of course, I ain't got no heirs, so she'll get whatever I have."

"Whatever" is, at conservative estimates, something more than a million dollars.

If Carol Ann has her way—and she will—she will share that million or so with two sisters.

Beery, as soon as he completes a film, will fly to Chicago and arrange to adopt two baby girls.

Cig Sets Fire, Doctor Dies

NEW BEDFORD, July 6—Victim of burns he suffered when he fell asleep while smoking, Dr. Fred W. Matthewson, 48, one of this city's most prominent physicians, died today at St. Luke's Hospital here.

The fatal accident occurred as he dozed in a chair in his bedroom. A fallen cigarette set his clothing afire.

Dr. Matthewson was a graduate of Boston University medical school. He was a member of the board of health clinic here.

Mrs. Matthewson and two sons, Jack and Stephen, survive him.

Boston's Licensing Board was today considering spirited opposition of clergy and laity to the licensing of a new beer and wine restaurant in Boston street, Dorchester. Residents of Edward Everett square joined the churchmen in objecting. The Rev. Daniel E. Hurley of St. Margaret's Church led the fight.

Bride of Patriarca Vindicated in Mixup

Proposed court action against Mrs. Helen Mandella Patriarca, wife of Raymond L. S. Patriarca, paroled state prison convict, was dropped today after her appearance before City Registrar James A. Burke.

The recent bride declared she had "inadvertently" given a wrong address when she filed wedding intentions and signed a prepared deposition, changing her residence from Leyden street, East Boston, to Harris Hall, Deaconess road.

In her trip to City Hall, made after closing hours, she was accompanied by her counsel, Herbert Callahan, who refused to allow her to talk to newspapermen.

In the deposition, Mrs. Patriarca stated that the mistake in the filing of her marriage intentions was "inadvertent."

"This was done with no intentions on my part of giving false information and I now understand that the address should have been my legal address at the time of filing," the deposition stated.

Atty. Callahan explained that she had used the Leyden st. address instead of that on Deaconess rd., hospital nurses quarters, in order to save the hospital from "unpleasant publicity."

Her appearance at City Hall was the result of a warning by Burke that unless she complied with his request at once he would be forced to obtain a court order.

$100,000 COAL FIRE IN R. I.

PROVIDENCE, July 6—Racing through abandoned coal pockets of the Eastern Coal Company, a four-alarm fire caused damage estimated at $100,000 today, sent two firemen to the hospital and caused injuries to several others.

It took more than two hours of desperate battling before the blaze was brought under control.

Flames leaped more than 100 feet into the air less than 50 feet from the Manchester street plant of the Narragansett Electric Company, present owners of the coal plant.

Damage was comparatively low due to the fact that the coal plant was being dismantled. Loss was chiefly in coal-handling equipment which was to be retained for power plant use.

Spontaneous combustion of quantities of coal dust remaining in the bottom of one of the pockets was blamed for the blaze.

William H. Maher and Thomas Conroy, firemen, were injured when a flaming boom collapsed and fell. Conroy suffered a broken leg and Maher a back injury. Half a dozen others suffered from minor injuries and smoke inhalation.

Narragansett Electric employes de-energized a 66,000 volt transmission line close to the burning building, but were able to maintain service without interruption through other lines.

The flames started high up on the wood pockets near the electric company building and on the Providence River side. It spread rapidly through the wood and sheet iron structure, jumped a space to a second pocket and raced along the high timbers.

One-Term Bill Victory Seen

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Advocates of a single presidential term of six years claimed enough votes in the Senate judiciary committee today to place the controversial proposal before the Senate.

Senator Burke (D.) of Nebraska, sponsor of the proposed amendment to the federal constitution, said the "single term issue" had no connection with the growing argument over a third term for President Roosevelt.

Other senators took a different view, however, arguing that support of the single term proposal was directly related to the third term question.

VANDENBERG TO RUN IF GIVEN NOMINATION

DETROIT, July 6 (INS)—In an explicitly worded letter, United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg today made clear he would accept the Republican nomination for President in 1940 if it is offered, but would not campaign for the nomination.

Writing to Insurance Company Executive Luke C. Leonard, a leader in the movement to form a nationwide string of "Vanderberg for President" clubs, the senior Michigan Senator said:

"I hope my statement regarding 1940 will not be misconstrued.

I certainly do not intend to make any sort of a campaign for the presidential nomination.

"I have simply wanted to emphasize and dramatize the fact that these approaching 1940 decisions are desperately important, and I have wanted to say—once and for all—that while I would not pursue the nomination, I could not refuse it if it should come to me.

"But I can tell you with great earnestness that I deeply hope my field of public service may continue to be in the Senate. My own personal interest is entirely confined to my campaign next year to succeed myself in the Senate.

"Whatever happens in connection with the presidency will result from the activities of others. I have absolutely no personal aspirations in this direction whatever.

"Perhaps I know too much about the job. Perhaps I am too familiar with my own limitations. None the less, I appreciate your letter and your attitude."

McNutt in Capital For Series of Speeches

WASHINGTON, July 6 (INS)—Paul V. McNutt, high commissioner to the Philippine Islands and a 1940 Democratic presidential possibility, arrived in the capital today, tanned, smiling and "darn glad to be back."

Warmly greeted at Union station by Senator Minton (D) of Indiana, who a few days ago said that the McNutt political organization would support President Roosevelt if he chose to run for a third term, the commissioner asserted he did not know how long he would remain in Washington.

Tomorrow McNutt will speak before the University of Virginia's 13th Institute of Public Affairs, and Tuesday will deliver an off-the-record talk to a national press club luncheon.

Tropical Bridal Set For Governor's Aide

Trim, efficient, industrious she appeared today. A tall, dark-haired girl, seemingly intent on her routine duties as a member of Governor Saltonstall's secretarial staff.

Less matter-of-fact, however, were her associates. One of them summed the situation up excitedly:

"We're all amazed at how calm Robbie Marsh manages to look. Here she is, a bride-to-be, with her wedding set for next month in a regular movie-scenario setting.

"She's marrying a handsome, young navy officer at Balboa, in the Panama Canal Zone.

BRIDAL IN TROPICS

"Palm trees, tropical skies and everything! A formal navy ceremony! The bridegroom's brother officers with their swords to form an arch! The post commandant, all gold braid and medals, giving the bride away! The Marine band, playing 'Anchors Aweigh!'

"It's the kind of romance you read about in books. Love affairs like that aren't supposed to happen any more. But it has all come true for Miss Roberta Marsh — of Brookline and the State House staff!

"And yet she sits here tapping that typewriter, as if she hadn't a thought in the world except transcribing her own shorthand."

But quite the bride-to-be and very lovely, too, Miss Marsh revealed herself when she told the story of her coming marriage.

FIRST SIGHT ROMANCE

"My fiance," she said, "is Ensign L. B. Clapham, Jr., U. S. N. He's an Annapolis graduate, the son of Lieutenant-Colonel Clapham of the United States army.

"Our romance had its beginning when Ensign Clapham was at M. I. T. here, studying aeronautic science. He came to my home in Brookline with a mutual friend. We were 'that way' about each other, from the first time we met.

"I'm leaving my job here in a week or two. I sail from New York for the Canal Zone August 10. The wedding will be from St. Luke's Cathedral, Balboa, August 21.

"I'm a graduate of Brookline high school and Katherine Gibbs School, Back Bay. I've been a member of the Governor's secretarial staff since his inauguration.

"Yes, I enjoy the work here. I used to think I'd like a career in busines or politics—or both.

"But now, as the girls here tell me, I've 'gone storybook' on them.

"And you can say that I'm very, very happy!"

Too Much Sun Is Dangerous for Them

Almost everywhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright these days, so the experts are warning one and all who may wish to take advantage of it that the sun, though familiar, is not to be treated with contempt.

First, they tell you, tan yourself slowly. The first day, 15 minutes of concentrated sunlight is all an unaccustomed skin wants to handle.

Second, don't let yourself fall asleep, unclad, in the sun. You may wake up and find yourself a hospital case.

Third, if you find yourself blistering in large areas, see a doctor about it. A blister burn covering as much as a third of your skin area can cause you serious harm—can even result in death.

Fourth, just keep in mind, the doctors tell you, that a little sun is all right, but a lot of sun is a dangerous thing.

And finally, remember, if someone near you is overcome by heat prostration, don't feed him ice water. Hot tea is best for such cases.

GOP Sees Money Power 1940 Issue

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A belated-hour administration triumph in the Senate put the Treasury in a position today to resume silver purchases and official use of its $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund as soon as President Roosevelt could sign the hard-fought monetary bill.

Despite Republican arguments that the action was illegal, the Senate voted late yesterday 43 to 39 to restore these powers and the President's authority to devalue the dollar.

The decision, reversing an earlier Senate stand, was occasioned by a breakup in the unique coalition of Republicans and silver-state Democrats who had fought the dollar-devaluation power.

Several silverites went over to the administration side after a domestic silver price of 71.11 cents an ounce was written into the bill.

MURPHY BACKS STAND

Republicans contended that the monetary powers could not be extended through this legislation because they had expired last Friday midnight during a Senate filibuster.

Administration lieutenants were bulwarked by an opinion from Attorney General Murphy that the authority would go into force again automatically when continuing legislation was enacted.

Secretary Morgenthau told his press conference today he was "entirely" satisfied the bill was legal; also he did not know any way in which any one could bring a lawsuit challenging it.

RESUME SILVER BUYING

The Treasury, he announced, was resuming its foreign silver purchase at noon. He was not considering at this time, he said, restrictions which might curtail such purchases.

To a question about domestic silver buying, he remarked there was nothing he could say since the price to be paid was fixed in the bill. This leaves the Treasury only the task of buying the metal. Formerly it determined the price.

While there was earlier Senate talk of a court test of the legislation, Republicans said today they were quite willing to let the people decide the issue in the presidential campaign next year.

Several senators agreed there was little chance the bill would be challenged in the courts unless Mr. Roosevelt should actually issue a proclamation to devalue the dollar further.

Under the continuing legislation he would be authorized to chip another nine cents away from the old gold value, which already had been cut 41 cents from the theoretical 100 cents prevailing before 1934.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Treasury slashed its foreign silver price today from 38 to 36¾ cents per ounce. Foreign silver buying was resumed at this lower level for the first time since last Friday.

Jail Kin of Peer, 3 Pals in Plot

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Four smartly-dressed "men about Mayfair"—one the nephew of a peer—were given prison sentences today for what the judge characterized as a "loathsome" conspiracy to ply a comely matron with drink in a night club and steal her $12,000 jewelry.

V. F. C. Hervey, 23, son of Lord Herbert Hervey and nephew of Lord Bristol, was sentenced to three years' penal servitude.

Sir Gerald Dodson, the judge, termed Hervey the "mainspring" of the conspiracy and said "how low you have stooped you alone know."

Sentences ranging from nine months to two years were imposed on Hervey's associates.

The recorder predicted public opinion ultimately might wipe out nightclubs and rebuked the woman victim of the conspiracy for frequenting them.

TORSO SUSPECT GRILLED

CLEVELAND, July 6 (INS)—A 32-year-old bricklayer held for questioning in connection with Cleveland's string of torso murders admitted today that one of the 12 victims, a woman, was in his room the night before she was slain, Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell announced.

The man, after repeatedly denying he knew any of the 12 victims, changed his story under intensive questioning and admitted knowing the woman and two of the male victims, O'Donnel said.

The man continued to deny any connection with the murders, the sheriff stated.

The questioning, marking the first time the sheriff's office has entered the baffling mystery since the first two headless bodies were found nearly four years ago, was conducted by O'Donnell and County Detective Harry Brown.

Search of the man's room disclosed four large knives. One of these bore blood stains, O'Donnell reported.

Boy Dies Victim Of Powder Blast

FALL RIVER, July 6 (AP)—Injuries that forced amputation of both hands after explosion of a bottle of firecracker powder proved fatal today to George Bigos, Jr., 14, Junior High School graduate and youngest of six children.

Bigos died at Union Hospital 20 hours after powder collected from unexploded firecrackers had blown up in the shoe shine bottle in which he and companions poured it.

The explosion lacerated the youth's hands so severely that amputation at both wrists was necessary a few hours after he reached the hospital.

Plane Elopers Hunted

SALEM, Ill., July 6 (AP)—A 17-year-old girl and a young barnstorming aviator with whom she flew her home in Vernon Monday in an airplane were objects of a search today instigated by the girl's parents.

Sheriff H. E. Vogt, to whom her disappearance was reported, said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gehrken, told him the plane fitted the description of one stolen June 28 from Frankfort, Ind.

Vogt said the aviator, about 24, was operating under the name of Larry Thompson, but investigation indicated that his real name was "Pyleh."

He had been making passenger flights at the Marion County village several days before Goldie Gehrken disappeared with him in what had been announced as a short trip to Ramsey.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Reject 2 War Referendums

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Two war referendum proposals sponsored by 12 senators were rejected today by the Senate judiciary committee, but sent on to the Senate for consideration.

The committee, by a 9 to 5 vote, disapproved a proposed constitutional amendment which would have ordered a popular vote to decide on a declaration of war on participation in "warfare overseas."

By a second vote, 9 to 5, it disapproved another proposal which would have called for a referendum and then final action by congress in declaring war.

Drum Whanging Gives Gov. Moore Sore Finger

TRENTON, N. J., July 6 (AP)—Governor A. Harry Moore appeared for work today with a piece of adhesive tape around the first finger on his right hand, explaining sheepishly that he had banged too loud and too long on a bass drum.

"Somebody gave the drum to me as a birthday present because they knew I had always wanted to play one," said Moore, who was 60 Monday.

DEFENDS KELLY LICENSE

Characterizing Representative Francis X. Coyne of Dorchester as a "disgruntled politician," Attorney Garrett J. Barry issued a public statement today in defense of action of the Boston Licensing Board in granting a liquor sales permit to Leo A. Kelly, brother of former Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly.

Coyne filed a legislative bill yesterday, calling for abolition of the licensing board. He cited the Kelly licenses as a "flagrant instance of favoritism."

Representing Leo A. Kelly, the licensee, Attorney Barry said today, in part:

"On May 23, a public hearing was held before the Boston Licensing Board on this matter (the Kelly license). All objectors to a previously granted beer license were notified to appear and voice their objections. Only a few presented themselves.

"Representative Coyne appeared and was heard. During the course of his remarks, he used threatening language. His attitude was that of a disgruntled politician. He was informed that the people of Ward 15 voted more than five to one in favor of all alcoholic licenses at the last election, but he still maintained that he cared not about the voice of his constituents."

Oxygen Tent Keeps Judge Logan Alive

Valiantly today, at Phillips House of Massachusetts General Hospital, Judge Edward L. Logan of South Boston court battled against death with the soldier spirit traditional in his family.

Ill for two weeks with a heart condition, General Logan, overseas commander of the 101st Infantry regiment, World War, was in an oxygen tent at the hospital.

It was a last desperate effort to save the life of the soldier who followed the family line in his connection with that war regiment, successor to the old Fighting Ninth of Massachusetts.

Members of General Logan's family were in constant attendance at the hospital as he waged the battle it was feared might be his last.

He has been a patient in the hospital since he was stricken.

On Tuesday, hospital officials reported an improvement in his condition since Saturday, but on Tuesday night he had a bad turn and since has failed to rally.

Nazis Ban Swastika Sales to Tourists

BERLIN, July 6 (AP)—The Nazis have stopped the sale of party badges, swastika flags and other official emblems to souvenir-hunting foreign tourists.

Squalus Lines Freed by Diver

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 6 (AP)—A diver descended today and freed two reeving lines which had fouled on a massive chain beneath the disabled submarine Squalus, 240 feet below the surface.

Two pontoons have been attached to the chain sling and the wire lines will be used to draw chains beneath the submarine to attach additional pontoons.

Seven pontoons in all, navy officials said, will be required to lift the Squalus. They had expected to attach an average of one a day, but the mishap was a setback to this program.

TRUCK DRIVERS WARNED

By order of Motor Vehicles Registrar Goodwin, truck drivers who get in two or more accidents by backing up will be forced to take a special examination before allowed to drive again.

Hewitt Heiress Shaken by Love

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., July 6 (AP)—Ann Cooper Hewitt Bradstreet, heiress to a reputed $10,000,000 fortune, was reported on the urge of a nervous breakdown today, suffering from an infected throat and a high fever.

"Mrs. Bradstreet has been badly shaken up for several weeks over the death of her mother and other events," said her attorney, William V. Breslin.

The lawyer said Mrs. Bradstreet's contemplated suit for divorce against her second husband, Gene Bradstreet, a San Francisco bar steward, was "up in the air." He indicated she was upset over marital affairs.

"HONEYMOON SKIPPER" FINDS CAMELS GIVE MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF...MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

CLOSE-UP BESIDE MIGHTY NIAGARA. Jolly Captain Robert Graham leans against the rail of his Maid of the Mist to give an inquiring reporter his views on cigarettes: "I've been a Camel smoker for more than 10 years. Lots of times I've compared with other smokers, noticed how much longer my Camels burned. To a steady smoker, that extra smoking mounts up. I figure—on the basis of these recent laboratory reports—that I'm getting the same as 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK. Even without that bonus, Camels still would be my smoke. They're milder, cooler—easy on my throat. They have a rich, mellow taste I've never found in any other cigarette. It's Camels' fancy the supreme flavors of Camels' finer, more expensive tobaccos...and the economy of long-burning that make Camel "penny for penny your best cigarette buy."

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK

For years millions of smokers have enjoyed the milder, cooler smoking ...and the economy of long-burning Camels. Now impartial laboratory tests measure this added value in Camels through a comparison of 16 of the largest selling brands.

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average of the 15 other of the largest selling brand.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower than the average Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

More mellow puff, more pleasure per puff. Camels are the quality cigarette every smoker can afford.

NEUTRALITY BILL BATTLE MAY CONTINUE UNTIL FALL

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 6 (INS)—Senate Democratic leaders laid the groundwork today for [illegible] fight to enact neutrality legislation which would permit Americans to [illegible] foreign way to sell their munitions and arms products to participants who could pay for [illegible] at American [illegible]

[illegible] the issue before the Senate foreign relations committee when it meets Saturday.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley after a conference with President Roosevelt, said the committee would "at that time have an opportunity" to draft some sort of a neutrality bill in view of House action in passing a bill last week.

SEE LONG FIGHT

Barkley, Senator Pepper (D) of Florida and other administration supporters were resigned to a lengthy fight and a session of Congress lasting perhaps into early fall in order to win their objectives.

Senators George (D.) of Georgia, Clark (D.) of Missouri and most of the Republican committee members were united in support of legislation unsatisfactory to the President, or postponement of the entire issue until the next session of Congress.

SHOWDOWN SATURDAY

So strong was the opposition that a new and emphatic move by the President or some of his executive department heads, designed to further the administration program, was regarded by many in the Senate as not unlikely.

"We are going to make a strong and determined fight to enact a suitable neutrality bill," said Pepper, a staunch administration man.

The foreign relations committee held hearings on neutrality proposals for weeks and since has consistently postponed consideration of legislation every time the neutrality issue came up. Latest postponement fixed the date for a real showdown at Saturday.

Business of Europe Is War, Says Ashurst

By SENATOR HENRY F. ASHURST

Chairman, Senate Judiciary Committee

WASHINGTON, July 6—At the time of our entrance into the World War, not as a matter of securing trade, but because of humanitarian impulses, we advanced many billions of dollars to our own and foreign countries.

These advances have not been repaid. There are no evidences that they will be repaid at an early date. It is part of the statesmanship, it is part of the policy of European governments never to pay a debt to another government.

As to the amounts of money that we gave we say "That was spent because of humanitarian impulses." The billions of dollars failed to stabilize Europe then.

FAILED TO SAVE EUROPE

America poured forth the blood of her bravest and her best to try to save Europe. America gave her treasure, she gave her money, and Europe is no nearer saved than she was before our sacrifice.

Europe's salvation, like the salvation of the individual, depends upon itself. Ye banners of Europe, we have found [illegible] in vain.

We [illegible] delude ourselves when we believe that money from our treasury, given or loaned to foreign governments, will stimulate our foreign trade that money from our treasury can buy the friendship of Europe.

This country therefore, by reason of being rich, must endure the envy and hatred of all other nations.

MUST PAY BILLS

The time has come for the United States to hold her own. We are not seeking to extend our dominions. Soon enough some incident will take place in the Orient, soon enough some incident will take place somewhere which will incite the people, and tremendous propaganda will be put upon us in an effort to induce us to enter some conflict on the side of "humanity" or on the side of "liberty."

If the nations of Europe and of the Orient believed they could get no advantage from the United States, if they knew they would be required to pay their debts, they would become our friends.

F. D. July 4th Speech Foments War, Nazis' Cry

BERLIN, July 6 (AP) Nazi publications expressed great irritation today over President Roosevelt's July 4 comment on United States neutrality legislation.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter declared that "Roosevelt again has dug up the war hatchet." The semi-official commentary Deutsches Dienst said:

"The intention of Roosevelt to line up America in the catastrophe from doors had brazen the danger of a world war, but on the contrary increases it."

BRITISH FLAY HITLER IN LETTERS TO NAZIS

BERLIN, July 6 (AP) German officials have interested themselves in private letters received by Germans from England to which Chancellor Hitler's foreign policy is denounced and the defeat of Germany in another war predicted.

One "KNOW-Man" is worth a hundred "GUESS-Men"

I've always preferred to have ONE employee who KNOWS his business, to a hundred who merely GUESS at it.

The hardest task I had, when I started in business, was to gather together an organization capable of providing efficient, intelligent, painstaking home-furnishing service. It hasn't been easy—but I've not done many more worthwhile things in all my life.

I'm both happy and proud of the fact that most of these "KNOW-Men" have been with me for a great many years. Every day adds to their knowledge; every day presents its new home-makers' problems. Each new transaction presents the same problem: Something needed for some part of the home, within a certain price limit. But the working out of each new transaction is an entirely NEW problem—a different taste to suit; a different environment to create; a different personality to fit.

It is the presence of these men who KNOW—the effect of the kind of service they render—that has made Kane's "Home-Makers to Millions"—and it is the presence of these men who KNOW that make a trip to a Kane store worth your while.

We KNOW how to help you to a better-furnished home, at LESS cost.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 6. The historic Chaplin studio on La Brea is a beehive of activity with all Charlie's old gang rallying around him. He and Paulette Goddard are the only ones working and yesterday they made tests with Charlie paying particular heed to voice recordings.

Since "The Dictators" is the first picture in which he talks he is particularly anxious to have his voice register correctly and considering the pleasant quality of the Chaplin voice off screen that shouldn't be difficult.

Meanwhile there is a rumor that either Fanny Brice, Patsy Kelly or Bee Lillie will be selected for the dictator's wife so you can see with these three comedians under consideration the lady will be funny.

Persistent rumors on the M-G-M lot that there is trouble galore over Eve Curie's biography of her famous mother. She insists that they stick to cold, hard facts without one iota of glamour, and you know that's difficult, especially when Garbo is to play the Curie role.

There have been more law suits over biographies than any other type of screen play, and there is always difficulty especially when the person's family is still alive. Garbo, who plans to go to Sweden if she can arrange it, is eager to start "Madame Curie" as soon as she finishes "Ninotchka" for she has been off the screen for more than a year and that's bad for any actress, even a Garbo.

ANDREA LEEDS is featured in "They Shall Have Music," the Sam Goldwyn production starring Jascha Heifetz and due soon in Boston.

Zany Film for Trans-Lux Bill

The zany Vanderhof family will be here again tomorrow, when "You Can't Take It With You," screen version of the Kaufman-Hart Pulitzer prize play, opens on Trans-Lux screen.

This thoroughly entertaining picture boasts a brilliant cast, headed by Jean Arthur, James Stewart, Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold and Mischa Auer. Supporting players include Spring Byington, Donald Meek, H. B. Warner, Halliwell Hobbs and Eddie ("Rochester") Anderson.

The maddest things are the likeliest realities for the Vanderhofs, whose saving grace is that they are lovable despite their idiosyncracies.

On the same bill are the popular newsreel digest, a Vitaphone cartoon, "Scalp Trouble," and "Stranger Than Fiction," which shows unusual places, people and inventions.

'GOODBYE, MR. CHIPS' HELD SECOND WEEK ON LOEW'S BILL

Donat's Acting Highly Praised

It's "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" for a second week at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters, as was to have been expected.

This made-in-England MGM production starring that excellent actor, Robert Donat, in the role of the young schoolmaster who became an octogenarian institution is making boxoffice records everywhere.

It is a beautifully made picture, handled with tenderness in all departments. R. C. Sherriff, English author whose "Journey's End" became one of the most popular war stories ever written, adapted the James Hilton best seller for the screen with precision and ease.

Donat's Mr. Chips is [illegible] season's most beloved leading man, a skimpy haired, sometimes cantankerous, frequently pedantic and anything but heroic leading man. It is an incredibly fine characterization, one that offered endless opportunities for quaintness and cuteness, opportunities that Donat resisted completely. His Chips is so believable you're almost convinced you knew him somewhere in the past.

Greer Garson plays Katherine, the entrancing young woman, who took Mr. Chipping of Brookfield in hand and transformed him by love into that witty fellow, Chips, who said such clever things in class. Miss Garson, young Irish actress, as is that other screen discovery, Geraldine Fitzgerald, is as refreshing and captivating a find as you'll encounter this or any other year. No wonder she wrought such a miracle in Mr. Chipping.

Another fine performance is Terry Kilburn, playing three generations of lads at Brookfield.

On the same bill is "Parents On Trial," with Jean Parker and Johnny Downs.

ROBERT DONAT'S portrayal of the title role in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" has been hailed throughout the nation as the year's finest. The screen hit has been held over a second week at both Loew's State and Orpheum.

'Juarez' at Uptown Tomorrow

"Juarez," which [illegible] one of the most dramatic chapters in Mexico's history opens tomorrow on the Uptown screen. It presents Paul Muni as the Mexican patriot Juarez; Brian Aherne, as Maximilian, the Hapsburg prince Na[illegible] [illegible] as Mexican pet empress, and Bette Davis [illegible] as his mad empress. [illegible] Gomez, Donald Crisp, Joseph Calleia, Virginia Brissac, Walter Fenton, Leo Carrillo and Edward Cianelli.

'I'm From Missouri' Tops Gayety Bill

The end of the week program at the New Gayety includes "I'm From Missouri," with Bob Burns and Gladys George, and "Romance of the Redwoods," co-starring Charles Bickford and Jean Parker.

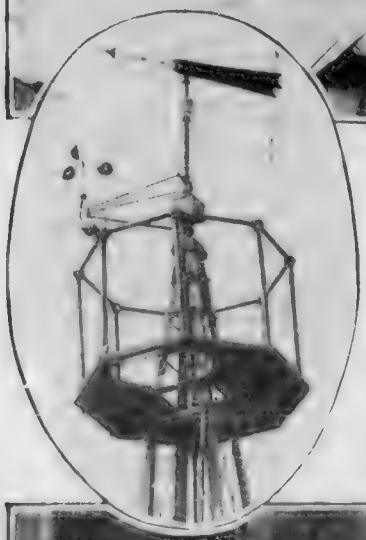
IT'S WEATHER... WHETHER OR NO!

Hot Enuff for You? Yeah!



Just Hot

—Noted for variety, Boston's weather is not accidental . . . but planned. For instance, Tom Phelan (above) of the Evening American complains. Then the weather bureau, under Forecaster Mart T. Nesmith, below, swings into action. The anemometer (middle) atop the Federal Building is consulted, and little do-jiggers of the bureau are twisted. Result: Heat wave.

FREE BOOKS are available to more than 65 per cent of the people of the United States, declares the National Association of State Libraries.

At least 80,506,000 Americans can without charge obtain the literary works of the world's best authors.

The report interests Massachusetts, where, according to the Association, the ENTIRE POPULATION of 4,249,614 has access to a public library.

ENJOYING GOOD BOOKS
Massachusetts Leads Nation

Only one State—Delaware—and the District of Columbia can match that record.

Elsewhere, and particularly in the Southwest, large areas are still without library service.

The report would also have interested the late Arthur Brisbane, illustrious editor, who a short time before his death wrote:

"We are told that the big problem of our day is communication, such as we hope television may supply.

"But what is television compared to the greatest of all communication that one good book affords?

"Reading brings the whole world to your living room chair — the beautiful Taj Mahal that an Indian prince built for his princess, the pyramids of Egypt raised on the desert no man knows exactly when, Paris' famous Arc de Triomphe, Big Ben of London or our own national capitol.

"Reading brings down to you the farthest star that the telescope reveals, though it be ten million light years from our tiny universe.

"Reading brings up to you the center of the earth, showing you all the great discoveries physicists, geologists and chemists have made in their laboratories.

"Reading can do even more: It can reach out beyond the graves of men and women centuries dead and bring you their thoughts and knowledge."

BACKWARD CHILDREN can acquire intelligence. There is no truth in the belief that dull parents must have dull sons and daughters.

That is the information Dr. George Stoddard, Iowa University's brilliant scientist, gives the National Education Association.

As proof he offers the results of an experiment conducted by his State's Child Welfare Research Station.

This consisted of taking children from fathers and mothers of low mental ratings and placing them in homes considered better than average.

When, six years later, the boys and girls took IQ tests, they were found to possess knowledge equal to that enjoyed by the children of university professors.

Further proof that mental brilliancy is not necessarily inherited awaits Dr. Stoddard in history books familiar to every high school student.

Sir Isaac Newton, one of the greatest men who ever lived; Voltaire, profound thinker and writer; Victor Hugo, outstanding French novelist; Jacques Rousseau whose books made possible the French Revolution; Ernest Renan, Nineteenth Century boy prodigy, and our own Abraham Lincoln were the sons of very ordinary parents.

Each, like Iowa's backward children, showed exceptional intelligence only when he was sent to a school or moved to a more cultural environment.

ANNA JAMME, pioneer nurse, former head of the New England Hospital for Women and Children, is dead in San Francisco, and thousands discuss the profession to which she dedicated her life.

Forty-two years ago, when Miss Jamme was graduated from Johns Hopkins School of Nursing, the care of the sick was a widely neglected work.

Less than 5 per cent of the nation's nurses had special training or hospital experience.

In fact, only 27 years previously, the Bellevue Training School for Nurses, now the country's oldest institution of its kind, had been established.

Today, thanks to the activity of such women as Miss Louise Lee Schuyler and Miss Jamme, the United States has 6189 hospitals and beds for 1,088,721 patients.

Massachusetts, one of the most progressive States, has 256 hospitals and beds for 37,718.

Motherhood

ANOTHER miracle of life revealed to us we see . . . Nature again renews her pledge of immortality . . . A miracle of mother love, of tenderness and pride . . . of love which in all mother hearts must evermore abide . . . And as she views the miracle with wonder and surprise . . . the shy but sweet maternal look lights up her lovely eyes.

Alert and on her guard she stands, cradling her tiny brood . . . a universal symbol of sacred motherhood.

—Paul T. Gilbert

Human Side of News -:- By EDWIN C. HILL

SUMMER DAYS, aside from being vacation time, are days of errant desires, of meandering thoughts, and a turn down the trail of rarely indulged but not forgotten enchantment.

Serious business is all right in its place, getting its due in man-ticket loyalty. Monkey business is more apt to bring to your eyes the light of "that boyhood of wonder and hope."

The "pitchmen" are the acolytes of this never-waning flame. You won't find many of them around the Fair. Theirs are the amidst carnivals, the little roadside ambuscades of wizardry, of the happily irrelevant and fantastic, of all that ministers to our persistent belief in miracles and our human treasury of ancient magic.

Grizzled old-timers, many of them are, with elegant mustaches, diamond stickpins, gold-headed canes and the hypnotic eye and throbbing larynx of the great orator.

IF YOU WILL circulate among the pitchmen for a spell, and forget all about the house percentage (forget all percentage, in fact) the following will be a few of your gleanings in "The human side of the news."

Pennies, with either the Lord's Prayer or the Ten Commandments engraved on them, cost the pitchmen $4.50 a gross and are just as good sellers as they were when you were a boy. Chinese back-scratchers are still a good line.

"STEP UP, GENTLEMEN—SEE THE SHOW!"
Film Comedian W. C. Fields as Carnival "Pitchman"

Texas horned toads are $2 a dozen to the pitchmen.

In Brownsville, Texas, there is to be had a mother and baby ringtail monkey; also an exceptionally fierce dragon. Dragons are as common as house cats in the magic world of the pitchmen — some exceptionally fine kinkajous, iguanas and rattle snakes with horns.

Over in Williamstown, N. J., you can pick up a giant pigtail monkey for only $65, also a big ara macaque, or sacred white monkey. Other alluring bargains, down in New Braunfels, Texas, include agoutis, Gila monsters, puma cubs and peafowl.

I can't get over the idea that it would be pleasant to drift down to New Braunfels and pick up an agouti or a kinkajou, or something like that. On the whole, the pitchmen must lead a much more interesting life than bankers or bus-drivers or actuaries, or, in fact, anyone who has to do with utility, routine and certitudes in general.

TAKE for instance, this Snow Ball Company, down in Jacksonville, Florida. The pitchmen got it up. They make snow balls for people to throw at each other, or to eat, if that suits them better.

You can get yourself a nice snow ball machine for $4.75. On bankers' advice a lot of us put our money in snow ball a few years ago and didn't even get the fun of throwing them at people.

Political Parade -:- by GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 6—Agitation within the inner circle of the New Deal bureaucracy for a movement to "draft" President Roosevelt for a third nomination, thus far has had the effect only of solidifying Democratic opposition to any such departure from the precedent established by Washington, and insisted upon by Jefferson and Jackson.

It continues to be the most absorbing topic of political discussion among Democrats in Congress.

A great many conferences, dealing with all the aspects of the serious menace to party harmony that has been presented, are in daily progress among party leaders.

A STRONG STAND against the renomination of the President next year was taken by Democratic Senator Guy M. Gillette, of Iowa, one of the first intended victims of the "purge" undertaken last year by certain elements within the New Deal close to the White House. He was reelected.

"I have over and over again stated my opposition to a third term for any man in the presidency," said Senator Gillette in an interview.

"I do not hesitate to reiterate it now. If it were my own father I would still oppose a third term for him. I strongly oppose a third term for any one.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
Renomination Opposed

"It is not a question of opposition to President Roosevelt. So far as I know the President has made no statement that could be construed into a suggestion that he contemplates being a candidate for a third term nomination.

"My opposition to such a nomination is not based on personalities or the question of any person's candidacy. I would strongly oppose a third term nomination for any one for two definite reasons.

"First, it violates the well-established precedent of a century and a quarter. No valid justification could be urged for a third term that could not be urged for a fourth or a fifth term.

"The best interests of our nation would be conserved by these frequent changes in administrative control.

"THE SECOND REASON is that there naturally develops support for an incumbent because of the tremendous power wielded legitimately through appointments, patronage and favors. The opportunity to build up this sort of powerful support for perpetuation in office ought not to be allowed to continue and be made more of a threat through continuing occupation of the executive office.

"This does not mean to suggest an improper use of the power, but that with the continuation in office the instincts of political preservation and self interest would constitute a constant urge for support in office of the source through which these people have been placed in office."

MONTAGUE PLANS GOLF TOUR

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 6 A Broadway Nocturne—11 P. M.: "Dr. Eugene Colligan, president of Hunter College, doesn't intend to return to his post after his vacation," a municipal official reveals at Moore's. "The Board of Higher Education already is seeking a successor". . . "I'm here to get in shape," John Montague, the mystery-man golfer, declares at the Riviera, "and I'm to try and get Babe Ruth to tour the country with me, playing golf" . . . "I fired all the help at my home," Gypsy Rose Lee, now a Broadway star, confesses at the Tavern. "I do all the cooking, the laundry, clean the house and drive my husband to the station every morning" . . . Joe Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento, steps to the Cotton Club's dance floor, proceeds to foxtrot . . . just as a jitterbug whirls his partner around, smack into Jacobs—who is dropped for a count of four.

12 P. M.: "The only man who has entered the Amazon area at the fair grounds," a World's Fair employee states at Tony's, "is Ed Wynn." . . . "I got into this argument with Sam Goldwyn," a film executive reports at the Paradise, "and Sam turned on me and shouted: 'For your information—let me ask you this question?'" . . . "I'm glad you liked my husband in 'Gunga Din,'" Mrs. Sam Jaffe relates at Sardi's. "Y'know, when Sam went to see the picture he waited in line, just like the rest of the movie-goers, for 45 minutes" . . . "Billy Rose wants to buy Eleanor Holm some jewelry," a jeweler informs at the Algonquin, "so Billy called in a group of jewelers, described what he wanted—and then asked them to submit sealed bids."

2 A. M. At the 18 Club, Jed Harris sits with Damon Runyon, and confides: "I wanted Damon to play the Frank Craven role in 'Our Town,' but Damon refused to become an actor" . . . "President Roosevelt sent an autographed photo of himself to Harpo Marx," a film editor informs at the Swing Club. "In acknowledgment, Harpo sent the President his own autographed photo" . . . "Donald went to the Yale Club to make a phone call from the booth, while I waited outside in the street," Mr. Donald Ogden Stewart relates at the Roosevelt. "He was late for his plane, so I went inside to remind him. Before I could get to the booth three guards blocked my way and chorused: 'Modom—this is the YALE Club' "

3 A. M.: "Jack Buchanan and P. G. Wodehouse had appointments at each other's house, but missed each other," a Button reports at The Weylin Top. "After the fourth time Wodehouse missed Buchanan again. So he got a pair of pajamas and went to sleep in Buchanan's bed—until the star came home at 4 30"

By GEORGE HOLLAND

EXCLUSIVE: The Congressional committee concerned with an investigation of WPA activities has been asked to consider grave charges of mismanagement brought against an executive in the state WPA music project . . . This gentleman, a former music teacher, is reported to have hired a pupil earning $80 in a Boston nightclub on a non-relief basis at $150 a month . . . At a WPA wage of $240 a month, the executive is said to have engaged a conductor working in New York to wield a baton in Massachusetts for week-ends only . . . An opera unit with 200 workers, and an orchestra of 76 musicians were offered employment under private management, but were kept on the public salary lists through the same executive's refusal to co-operate, according to another charge against him . . . The executive's resignation is said to be written and signed . . . It will be offered, however, as a protest against a system which assertedly makes a supervisor the prey of more amateur sleuths than ever tried to get a job from Pinkerton.

JAMES M. CURLEY thinks the present is too remote from election day to let his candidacy be declared for Mayor of Boston . . . It is a reasonable hazard, though, that he will be on the list of those seeking to succeed Mayor Tobin . . . Another former mayor—a quiet man who is bitter against one or two former ranking members of his party (Democrat) - is a likely candidate, too . . . Frederick W. Mansfield . . . If Mal Nichols decides to run, a Boston mayoral election may find three former mayors contesting, and if the so-called "home rule referendum" passes next fall, Mayor Tobin will be in the fight as well . . . Of course if Senator Walsh decides not to be a candidate for Senator again (and this is very unlikely), it will be Tobin for Governor—and Dever for the Senate.

ERROL FLYNN STARTS MONTH'S VACATION

By Louella O. Parsons

Errol Flynn

HOLLYWOOD, July 6 History repeats itself in the case of William Cameron Menzies, production designer on "Gone With the Wind." Years ago, when the agile Douglas Fairbanks was jumping over houses and slaying whole armies single handed, he was Doug's art director on "The Thief of Bagdad." Today Bill leaves for London to again act as director on Alexander Korda's remake of "The Thief." Only this time he will not only enhance the art effects, but will be the sole director

Some months ago we printed that Jon Hall would be loaned to Korda by Samuel Goldwyn, but recent business difficulties between Merle Oberon's bridegroom and her boss make this deal a dead issue. However Sabu, the Indian star, and possibly Rex Ingram, the Negro actor will carry on. One of the most beautiful pictures ever made, Technicolor ought to add to the charm of this delightful fantasy.

ERROL FLYNN, who has been trying to get away on that boat of his, finished "Elizabeth and Essex" yesterday and was given permission to go sailing, but not too far away. Are Chronic Optimists Superior Souls?

By Elsie Robinson

HUMAN CUSSEDNESS certainly uses some curious cover-ups! Take these chronic Optimists, for example. That is—YOU take [illegible]

Personally, I've just about as much admiration for and faith in a Professional Pollyanna as in a [illegible] rattler. A rattler is a simple and obvious critter. There's no pretense about him you can read his motives in a glance. But it takes some high, wide and fancy guessing to get hep to one of these smiling humans who insists that All Is for the Best even though everything's busting loose an inch from his nose.

REAL cheerfulness, determined faith - they're different. There's nothing finer than a deliberately hopeful human being who tries to make the best of things and refuses to let Old Man Trouble get him down. But such Smiling Spunk has nothing whatever to do with the tactics of the Happy Little Band that refuses to see anything but the Silver Lining to the Cloud. And smile in condescending pity over your [illegible]

Yes - I admit such serenity makes [illegible] Superior Souls, WHICH IS EXACTLY WHAT THEY INTEND IT TO DO.

But [illegible] A BUNCH OF SMARTIES WHO ARE USING UNIVERSAL MISERY TO PUBLICIZE THEIR [illegible]

. and who deny the misery around them because they haven't the gumption to admit it - and do something about it!

HONEST, COURAGEOUS CITIZENS DON'T GO AROUND LOOKING FOR THE SILVER LINING TO THE CLOUD. THEY GET BUSY AND ELIMINATE THE CLOUD!

They don't say, "All's well... everything will turn out finely."

THEY ADMIT WITH HEAT AND STEAM THAT ALL ISN'T WELL. THAT, TO THE CONTRARY, AN INFINITE NUMBER OF THINGS ARE FOUL AND CRUEL AND ANGRY AND [illegible]

And having admitted the [illegible]

They admit but [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] But they don't [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Short Boil Methods For Fruits

By MARTHA LEE

What can be better than one ripe, summer fruit turned into a delicious short-boil jam? The combination of two fruits, of course. Their delicious, separate flavors blend into a single zest of goodness that teases the appetite into asking for more and [illegible]

Now few people appreciate the [illegible] berry—yet, combined with sweet red cherries it's one of the best. [illegible] and currant jam needs no introduction to the list of favorites, so be sure to have plenty on hand. Peach and plum has a distinction all its own and now's the time to prove it once and for all.

The short boil methods used today with powdered or bottled pectin are fool-proof. They give you half-again more glasses from every quart of fruit, and the extra good flavor of every jam is a constant temptation for sweet-tempered families.

Be sure to follow the recipes exactly. They were specially developed for just these fruits.

RIPE RED RASPBERRY AND CURRANT JAM

4½ Cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
½ Bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, crush about 1½ pounds fully ripe currant. Remove seeds and skins by sieving. Crush about 1 quart fully ripe raspberries. Combine fruits. Measure exact prepared fruit into large kettle, filling up last cup with water if necessary. Mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

RIPE SWEET CHERRY AND GOOSEBERRY JAM

4 cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, stem and pit about 1 quart fully ripe cherries, crush thoroughly or grind. Crush thoroughly or grind about 1 quart fully ripe gooseberries. Combine fruits. Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, filling up last cup with water if necessary. Mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Skim; pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

RIPE PEACH AND PLUM JAM

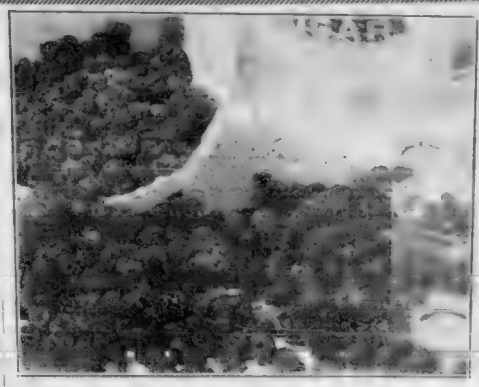
3½ cups prepared fruit
4½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel about 1½ pounds fully ripe peaches; pit and grind or crush thoroughly. Peel and pit about one pound fully ripe plums. Cut in small pieces and crush thoroughly. Combine fruits. Measure exact amount prepared fruit into large saucepan or kettle. Mix powdered fruit pectin into dry sugar and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a five to six-quart kettle filling up last cup with water if necessary. Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once add sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ½ tsp butter may be added.) Continue stirring briskly to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about eight glasses (six fluid ounces each).

GINGER AND RIPE PEAR JAM

4 cups prepared fruit
½ to 1 cup diced crystallized ginger
7½ cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel, core and crush completely or grind about three pounds fully ripe pears. Dice about half pound crystallized ginger. Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed, into large kettle. Add ginger, mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard one minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for about five minutes to cool slightly to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.



ANCIENT AND HONORABLE is the reputation of the raspberry. The ancient Greeks insisted it had been cultivated by the gods. (Another helping of that home-made jam, please!)

Bay State WPA Men Join Walkout

A national reduction of 200,000 in last month's WPA payroll of 2,000,000 also has been ordered for July.

Thomas A. Murray, president of the Building and Construction Trades Council (AFL) of Greater New York, said it was "quite likely" a national strike of all AFL construction workers employed on WPA might result from a conference of AFL leaders in Washington, D. C. today.

Murray said the council also would meet during the day to consider formal strike action by its 25,000 members on WPA in New York City.

The work stoppage brought immediate threats of permanent dismissal from WPA officials in some localities.

RAN HOME: RELIEF

Denying union assertions that "practically all" of the 32,283 skilled workers on projects in New York had laid down tools, Colonel Brehon B. Somervell, local administrator ... 95 per cent of the projects still were going "full blast."

Somervell said workmen who remained away from their jobs more than five days would be dropped, and Welfare Commissioner William Hodgson announced that ... also would be ... from receiving home relief.

the plaintiff from 1932 to 1939 inclusive?"

Some of the other interrogatories follow:

"In 1932 did you present the plaintiff to your father or other members of your family?"

"Did you and the plaintiff live at the Lincoln House, Flushing, L. I.?

"Did you and the plaintiff live at the Mayfair Apartments, at Flushing, L. I.?

"Did you and the plaintiff live ... in Northampton in 1936?"

At the hearing, the court read McCarthy's ... and Atty. Fink's brief, and then examined the statute pertaining to the drawing of the declarations as well as the statute outlawing breach of ... promise ...

"The outlaw act doesn't cover this section as it is apparent you come in under the last clause," said Judge Gray. "As I see it, the claim is made that the promise was made prior to Sept. 1, 1938, and repudiated since, and the suit has been brought within 60 days of the repudiation."

"Was there an expressive act committed on the part of the defendant in his repudiation?" the court asked.

"Yes, Your Honor."

"What was it?"

"I will submit this letter cancelling charge accounts in Boston stores in her name."

After looking over the letter, Judge Gray asked:

"Just what did the defendant do in February of 1938, as you allege here?"

"He just moved out and left her stranded. He got himself another woman," replied Atty. Fink.

Living Lesson to Louis: Black Pauper

THE DAY THAT JOE LOUIS, the saffron slugger, finished sharpening his reflexes for Tony Galento at Pompton Lakes, old Sam Langford was lurking about the lawns, nearly sightless, feeding on the rinds of charity and giving away vast quantities of conversation. Old Sam stood as a pitiful husk of a once splendid brute and a pathetic martyr to a sport which has its origin in the mortal furies of the jungle apes.

AUSTEN LAKE

Sam's features were smeared with a chocolate grin—a thick, barrel-chested man in his early sixties. As a primitive type his wants are small . . . a plug of eating tobacco, a hallroom flop, crusts bought from his store of small coins, a misfit suit of castoff clothes.

In the green lawns below Louis' sleeping quarters the black pauper, once wizard of the fistic craft, loitered to invite alms and retell his old legend—a bogged down derelict who was awash now in an unheeding human tide which flowed past and into Louis' training theater.

He, who had once set his hand to $150,000 represents a tragic warning to the yellow boy who dwells in snug comfort with his male chaperones and who at the early age of 25 has won celebrity and wealth.

Legion of Misfortune

BEING NATURALLY JOYOUS, GENEROUS and inclined to carry ing forms of frivolity the history of the ring has been largely one of spendthrift foolishness. Even from the days of the factories and cotton patches found themselves suddenly endowed with rat-ridden realize that money was granted for reasons but quick spending.

It came too easy and the Fitzsimmons, Joe Choynskis, Jack Johnsons and Sam Langfords who made it fast during their physical prime, scattered it just as rapidly on frisky horses, female gauds, the little freckled dice cubes and ingenious ways known only to themselves. So in the end they wound up sick, broke and disillusioned, trying to fight their way back up the ladder in the bucket-of-blood clubs and taking their regular poundings.

Of the comparatively few black fighters who, up to this era, have broken through the crust of white prejudice, Harry Wills and Tiger Flowers stand as the two who revealed a quality of common sense, invested their assets in trust funds and lived frugal, sober lives.

Wills bought himself a little pension and a block of Harlem apartments. And Tiger Flowers, who died in his physical heyday—a pious, Bible-reading man who used to stuff scriptural scribblings inside his fighting mittens before entering the ring, lived simply as befitted a deacon in the Methodist-Abyssinian Church. He left a comfortable stake for his family.

KID CHOCOLATE, A HAVANA NEGRO of mixed blood whose real name was Eligio Sardinas, was to the bantam class what Joe Louis now is to the heavyweights and Henry Armstrong is to the light and welterweights—an elusive smudge who did a tireless goat dance and ripped in his padded fists with savage ferocity. He had earned more than $200,000 when his filament burned out five years ago. But now he has nothing left and is grinding away in Cuba's cave-of-the-winds fight clubs, sick most of the time and making a pathetic attempt to fight his way back.

Siki, of course, was less of a conventional ring fighter than a wild madman from the Barbary Coast. After a brief splash on the sport pages, mainly because of his fondness for smashing tavern mirrors and strolling in public with leashed lion cubs, he wound up dead in a Manhattan gutter with a knife in his back.

Johnson's career as a fugitive from U. S. law after selling his title to Jess Willard, found himself a Spanish bullfighter, champion of the various Latin countries, a jazz maestro, owner of a flea circus, until, at length, homesick, he returned to serve a year's prison term before settling down in Harlem to pick a thin living as a night club pensionnaire.

BUT LANGFORD WAS VICTIM OF HIS barbaric time, possibly the best man at his weight who ever lived, but one who frittered his money as fast as he earned it and, needing to eat, let many inferior whites stay upright to win graceless decisions.

He was quite frank about his cheats as he stood under a bush at Pompton and cackled the history of his fistic iniquities.

Sam lost sight gradually after Fred Fulton crushed his optic nerve and he fought on when opponents were vague swirls of mist. He fired his shots by a sort of prize-ring Braille, waiting until he was hit and timing the spot from whence he thought the blow came. Thus his blindness remained undiscovered until, by his Braille method, he knocked an opponent through the ropes and, unknowing that his man lay unconscious among the tobacco tins, bottle caps and cigaret butts of the press rows, he fumbled and sparred all by himself for a man that wasn't there. So they said, "Poor Sam is blind" and hauled him away to a public dismissary.

The present breed of Negro fighter is more provident. Louis, an ex-pickaninny from the cotton fields of Alabam', came under control of college-bred men with a keen financial sense. They cached his money—nearly a million by now. In insurance trusts and low-interest bearing government bonds so that he nets about $20,000 a year in dividends. And always they keep before Joe the ideal that he represents his race in the eyes of the white world, keeping him busy and acting as male governesses. Hence in his older age Louis is unlikely to need the warning of Langford, the black pauper who, nearly sightless, lurks around the fight-camp lawns, feeding on the rinds of charity.

Sarah Eliminated By Kay Stammers

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6 (AP)—Kay Stammers, England's beautiful left hander, defeated Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Cambridge, Mass., 7—5, 2—6, 6—3 in the semi-finals of the all England tennis championship today after a four and half-hour match interrupted by rain three times.

SARAH PALFREY FABYAN

Miss Fabyan served first and hit four straight drives [illegible] line to lose the game to love.

The rhythm of Miss Fabyan's delicate game appeared upset by the wind. She got within a point of breaking Miss Stammers' service in the second game but lost it and dropped the third with a double fault after the [illegible] been deuced four times.

The English girl made it two with the help of a net cord on the fourth but Miss Fabyan won the fifth. Play was interrupted by a steady drizzle.

The rain finally stopped and the sun came out after 15 minutes. And even the wind calmed down, which was a break for Miss Fabyan. She took advantage of it by taking the sixth game against service to bring the score to 4—2.

For the third time in the set, however, the American girl served a double fault in the seventh. It cost her the game, but she broke Miss Stammers' service in the eighth, won the ninth to hold and again stopped the English girl's service in the tenth to love to draw even at five all.

Miss Stammers came back, however, with three superb passing shots to break Mrs. Fabyan's service in the 11th, and she took the 12th with service for set, 7—5.

Mrs. Fabyan started the second set by winning two quick points but he moved to the net and piled the game out with a good placement and a great half volley.

Rain started to fall again in the second game and play was stopped with the score 40-40.

After 20 minutes play was resumed again though it still was raining and the wind was blowing hard.

Mrs. Fabyan took two straight points to win the second game and led 2—0 when play was stopped once more and the court was covered.

When play finally was resumed Mrs. Fabyan ran away with the third game to lead 3—0.

Mrs. Fabyan came from behind to win the seventh and led 5—2 as rain stopped play for the third time.

80 FATAL TO LITTLE

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 6 (AP)—Lawson Little, former American and British amateur king, eliminated himself from the British open golf championship today when he shot the second round in 80 for one of the day's highest scores and a 36 hole total of 159.

The best guess is that 151 or better will qualify 44 players for tomorrow's final 36 holes.

Meanwhile, Johnny Buda of Chicago remained in the running by shooting a 71 for a two round total of 147. He was one of six strokes back of the pace setting Dick Murphy, Ewell City, Mo., Chamber, who posted a 72 to his first round of 70 for a 36 hole total of 142.

Little played very tired golf, couldn't come close to regulation figures, he was seven over par—and ultimately gave the impression he didn't care.

Miss Little broke local rules for championship play by leaving her [illegible] on the 36th green [illegible] ing up the fairway holding his arm and evidently conceding him for his poor showing. She left him and joined the crowd before he played his second shot however. After discussing his next [illegible], Lawson stalked into the clubhouse, silent and disconsolate.

Talbert Ousts Ex-Lion Ace

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., July 6 (AP)—Young Bill Talbert of Cincinnati led the Gold Racquet tennis field into the round of eight today by wearing down the powerful Austral Gunningham, former Columbia basketball and crew star, 11—9, 6—1, on the Eastern Slope Inn courts.

Talbert, equipped with a nice assortment of ground strokes, played using them to the best advantage when his opponent had a point against him in the opening set, 5 games to 2 and 40-15.

As he pulled up from behind in exciting fashion, Talbert forced the New Yorker to race himself breathless for his nicely placed returns.

The violent exercise under a [illegible] took most of Cunningham's stamina and he was an easy victim as Talbert wound up the second set in short order.

LOWLY PHILLIES DUE IN TOWN TOMORROW

By JOE CASHMAN

Their six-game win streak snapped by the Giants, our Bees must wait until tomorrow for a chance to start another surge.

The schedule keeps them idle today, but they won't bat.

They're doing a kindly deed by trekking down to Quincy to engage in a twilight exhibition game in connection with the dedication of a memorial to the late Fred Doe, long prominent baseball figure and father of the Sunday baseball law.

With Bill Posedel well rested to start after his third straight shutout on the morrow, when the basement Phillies invade the Hive for four tilts in three afternoons, the allegedly-e should quickly return to victory trail.

They've been beating the Quakers with monotonous regularity all season, to have six other clubs in the loop for their matter.

In fact, few can remember when last the Phils beat anybody.

It is recalled, though, that they took a few beatings, some of them extra curricular, from the Reds in Quaker Town over the past weekend.

CASE ALWAYS READY

Casey Stengel made safe that engagement became memorable by aiming $25 worth of not too well directed punches at Merrill May, Phils third sacker after the latter had stepped all over our Eddie Miller in a play at second base.

Casey professes to have no yen for a return bout on his own back yard. But if Mr. May insists, we can't conceive of Ol' Case running away.

For the Boss Bee is in a fighting mood after watching his charges drop their first decision in six home stands against the Giants yesterday.

"Case" doesn't mind when his lads get an honest to goodness pasting, but it burns him up when they're beaten like they were on this occasion.

First, Jim Turner couldn't protect a two-run lead. Later Terry Tesbacher John Lanning were denied a similar advantage. Finally with the score tied, 7 to 7, Joe Sullivan weakened in the ninth and the Giants put over four runs before Dick Errickson could get the side out.

GUMPERT SHELLED

Thus after shelling Harry Gumpert the New Yorkers sent Jim Turner the man and missing some weeks of his successor, one Lopez Lynn, the ... der to king Carl Hubbell, who registered his second win of the year by holding them hitless for three stanzas.

Turner and Sullivan might be forgiven for not doing better.

Milkman Jim was making his first start since ... Ival Goodman line drive struck him flush on the face, breaking his nose. He could hardly be expected to be at his best in his initial effort after such a long absence from action.

He was immense in the first frame when, after being found for a single and triple with nobody out, he held Bill Jurges on third while he fanned Danning and Ott and got Bonura on a foul. That display, however, seemed to sap his strength.

But with a little more work under his belt, he promises to be O K

Sullivan, too, was making his first start in weeks. He had been on the sidelines with a sprained ankle.

It's not possible, though, to offer any alibi for Lanning.

Once again Cuccinello, Simmons, West and Hayes hit hard and timely, but this time they couldn't offset the punishment the Terry terriers were inflicting on the home lanters.

Zeke Bonura, who had gone hitless in the holiday twin bill, helped himself to a home run, two singles and three runs batted in. Billy Jurges bashed out two triples and a single. Every player in the line-up except pitchers hit safely at least once and only Moore and Ott were content with one blow.

The Bees just haven't a chance when the opposition is sticking with such force.

Indignant Fans Best Customers Says Cochrane

By MICKEY COCHRANE

The morning after the Cubs shut out Rowe in the opening game of the '35 World Series, thereby trumping my ace, I got the following letter from an indignant customer:

Early in the morning

Dear Mike:

The best defense is a good offense.

Why not put Walker in center field and get that batting power in the line-up where it belongs?

Would the story have been different yesterday had Fox led off in the first inning with that hit of his? It sure would have been more inspiring than that strikeout of White's. Then when Hank and Goose got those walks, it sure would have raised your hopes if Walker was coming up to bat, 'cause you must admit that the boy hits 'em when they are needed.

Certainly the Cub pitchers are not worried about White leading the batting order (they have only to look at his batting average to know that if they pitch to him it is a one out) Imagine the difference they notice when they start off with Fox leading the batting order. Not a weak spot all the way down the list to the tail end. It certainly can give your opposing pitcher more worry than he has with your present line-up.

In the subject of conversation among Detroit fans some accuse you of being personally "down" on Walker, while White is a sort of "teacher's pet" under your wing. No one but yourself knows the reasons why, so use that good judgment of yours and make the right fair decision about the matter.

While Joe Sullivan is credited with pulling the team out of the early slump last spring, how about Walker? Walker played in every game and was batting like a mad man. Certainly he furnished some of the inspiration to his mates with his good hitting. But, alas, the Detroit sports writers (so-called) if they do not like a player, will ride him forever, and woe to him that they start to make the goat.

Even with his short memory of "being caught off base," Walker gets on base, which is more than some of the other players on the team seem able to do.

What do you think Walker would be hitting if he was batting number 4? Here is a guess that the boy would be doing his stuff and be right there where Hank is, perhaps knocking runs in when they are really needed. Somehow Hank seems to knock in runs just in the games that the Tigers lead by a huge margin, but in a close game that could be won by one or two runs, Walker has been the boy to knock him in.

Think it over, Mickey, and give the boy a break. What say?

Best of luck for today!

A BUNCH OF TIGER FANS.

This group of fans overlooked a couple of rather important items: (1) That there was a difference of $2300 to every player on our club and the loser's share of the purse, and (2) most important, that Lonnie Warneke offered a puzzling sort of resistance with a beautiful four-hit ball game in which only Pete Fox got two hits. White, leading off and Rowe the pitcher got the other pair of knocks.

GOOD FANS LOYAL

One of the mysteries of managing a baseball team is the curious fact that no baseball fan can tolerate a good game by the other team.

It would be as easy to explain that as it would be to explain why Bill Dickey couldn't hit the ground with his bat in the Yankee-Giants of 1936 but [illegible] the place asunder [illegible] the next year.

The World Series does something to a ball player, just as the big game does it to a boy on the back lots, or as a football player gets it in the big game at college just before the whistle blows.

And just as the big game will make an otherwise ordinary golfer rise to heights, so will the World Series drive mediocre ball players sometimes to tremendous feats, feats they could not reproduce during the regular season for all the money in America.

I guess there will always be one or two fellows around who can play before that big throng and give their best—stars, I mean. Stars of the stripe of Dizzy Dean. Ole Diz was never better than when he was, as he would say, "a-tarin' a back an' a-lettin' 'er fly." Crowds were tonic to Diz

DIZ MONEY PLAYER

In the Yankee-Cub Series of '38, Ole Diz, who had been in only about five games from July until the series, was asked to repeat a performance he had delivered the week before in helping the Cubs clinch the pennant from the league-leading Pirates. His comeback job on that occasion was magnificent.

And against the Yankees, with only a shade of his oldtime speed and nothing but a lot of cute tricks out there, he managed to stave off the Yankee power for a long time—and he might have won the ball game had not a dinky little grounder rolled between shortstop and third base and into left field with two runs scoring on it. Rolled between two ordinarily good infielders!

Of course, with Frank Crosetti and Joe DiMaggio belting lightning shots over the leftfield wall, even Diz could not find too much fault, but it was a truly great performance of skill and courage he gave until the percentage caught up to him—and the pressure or breaks to Hack and Jurges

World Series or ordinary ball games, the pressure on a pitcher is pretty tough; but even so, he must never lose sight of the fact that there are others behin I him and he must trust them. But when they make a mistake, boot an easy chance, or make an error in execution through a wild throw, or make the play on the wrong man in a jam, the pitcher must be the first one to calm down.

PITCHER MUST USE HEAD

"Those guys make an awful lot of runs for me," one truly great pitcher said to me one day, "so who am I to yell if they want to spot the other birds a few runs. They'll probably get them back."

And one of the freaks of baseball is that the fielder who boots a chance, or makes a costly wild throw, will find himself in a position to win the ball game before it is over.

It is another of those percentage things which cannot be explained any more than the fact that the outfielder who makes a circus catch for the last out of the inning, is more times than not the lead off hitter in the next inning.

The best thing for a pitcher to do who has suffered because of an error is to calm down his mate and do it immediately before the mate begins to believe that every one is sore at him and through sheer nervousness begins to boot away every chance within two feet of him.

The great player will come through to repay a pitcher for overlooking a misplay. He's liable to knock the cover off the ball the next time at bat and drive in twice as many runs as he let in.

Tomorrow, Mickey Cochrane names outstanding players he competed with and against during his American League tenure.

TABOR ACADEMY, HARVARD CREWS WIN ON HENLEY

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 6 AP—Harvard won such a comfortable victory over the London Rowing Club "A" crew in the third heat of the grand challenge cup of the Royal Henley Regatta today that the Americans were sitting up at the finish, cheering on the fagged-out London crew.

Harvard, which advanced to the semi-finals through the victory over last year's winners, won by two lengths with a time of [illegible].

The Americans started slowly but soon took a slight lead, rowing 38½ to London's 37½. At the quarter mile the crews were even but at the half mile the Harvard stroke gained a quarter of a length lead by [illegible] the crew a spurt of ten. By the time they reached the mile Harvard was [illegible] London's 36.

HAMPERED BY WIND

Rough water and a stiff wind bothered both crews. Harvard overcame it to [illegible] an almost perfect rhythm in the final sketch.

Harvard meets Jesus College, Cambridge in the semi-finals tomorrow.

Tabor Academy of Marion, Mass., moved up another round in the Thames Challenge Cup competition by easily defeating the Twickenham eight for the American boat's second victory. The New Englanders were clocked in 7 minutes 18 seconds for the mile and five-sixteenths.

The race was rowed in a [illegible] and against a heavy wind which rocked the shells to an average of 32 and 34 over most of the course. However, at one [illegible] Tabor was stroking 41 to the Englishmen's 39.

The American eight [illegible] was ready pressed at any time. From a length and a half lead at the mile post, the American schoolboys increased their margin to two lengths and paddled home without any signs of distress.

Joe Burn, [illegible] from Philadelphia's Penn Athletic Club polished off another victory in defense of the Diamond Sculls here when with a phenomenally fast stroke he defeated L. D. Haldane of the Barnes Pond Rowing Club.

Burn was extended [illegible] for the mile and five-sixteenths as he finished two lengths in front of the Englishman.

In the 12th heat for the Thames cup Kent school of Connecticut, the defending trophy holder, defeated Imperial College by half a length in 8 minutes, 1 second.

Tabor Belts 5th in 2 Days

PHILADELPHIA, July 6 (INS)—The Philadelphia Athletics continued their nose dive when Nelson Potter was clouted for 14 hits by the Boston Red Sox who pounded out a 6 to 4 victory.

The A's made nine hits off Auker, Bagby and Ostermueller but batted throughout Hoskins scored one run in the second and three more in the third and was never headed.

Johnson homered for the A's in the sixth and Tabor batted one for the Red Sox in the eighth.

It was Tabor's fifth homer in two days. The Sox have an off day today and open up with the Yankees tomorrow.

Giant Gridders Sign Ed Miller

NEW YORK, July 6 AP—The New York Giants National Football League champions announced today they had signed Lloyd Miller, [illegible] guard, who played with the New Mexico Aggies last season.

A chunky youngster weighing only 170 pounds, Miller completed 111 passes out of 194 attempts, 11 of them going for touchdowns. He averaged an average of four yards [illegible] advantage in leading the Aggies to the border conference title.

Dempsey Shows Improvement

McNair Clouting Baseball Hard | Giants' Rookie Really Frugal

After Jim Tabor had poled out four home runs in Shibe Park, the experts raced for the "Little Red Book" to tell the fans about the new mark the young Red Sox third-sacker had established . . . The research proved that the best the book gave Tabor was a tie with Tony Lazzari.

IN FRIDAY'S DAILY RECORD

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

THE JOE LOUIS management had more than a desire to show the champion before his home town admirers when they insisted upon Detroit as the scene of the "Brown Bomber's" title defense against Bob Pastor . . . It was anxious to have Louis' most dangerous match held in a State where they possess their greatest political strength . . . In New York, the Louis management has relied upon Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club to show them the way around the town.

Mike is very resourceful, but not any more so than Jimmy Johnston who manages Pastor . . . Johnston was one of the few who remained loyal to Jimmy Walker when the latter was in voluntary exile in France . . . Johnston always kept a large picture of Walker over his desk when he was matchmaker of Madison Square Garden . . . Walker is once more a power in New York which is one of the reasons the New York Athletic Commission has pulled its punches when Johnston has been frank in telling that august body what he thought of some of its decisions.

At the height of prohibition when the racket boys muscled their way into boxing, racing and into other sports, Johnston fought their advances . . . He was so outspoken that he was finally told he was going to be wiped out . . . The night this information came to Johnston there was a big fight scheduled for the New York Garden . . . When the lobby of the Garden was jammed with fans, Johnston made one of the most startling speeches ever heard anywhere.

"I have just been told I have been put on what the racketeers call the spot," declared Johnston as a crowd gathered around him . . . "I always thought an honest man could conduct his business without interference, but I am apparently wrong . . . If anything happens to me, I want you people to tell the Mayor and the Police Commissioner that the persons who wanted me out of the way were (at this point Johnston named three big shot racket leaders in New York).

"I intend to remain in New York every day . . . I am not going to hide out anywhere . . . I came to the United States from England when a youngster because my parents considered this a free country."

There was intense excitement in the Garden lobby when Johnston ended his speech . . . The "Boy Bandit" accompanied by his brother Charley, calmly paraded to ringside seats . . . After that public outburst, nobody in New York's underworld made any more threats against James J. Johnston.

I imagine that when Johnston arrives in Detroit with Pastor he will be able to find his way around the automobile city without a guide. He may be relied upon to tell the Governor of Michigan and the members of the Boxing Commission the type of officials who should have charge of a world's championship bout . . . A colorful, daring, quick thinking individual is this little Englishman, now in his sixties, who believes he will win the world's heavyweight championship for the white race with Bob Pastor, a New York State boy.

Jim Tabor's Case

Jim Tabor should prove a great ball player for the Red Sox. I think Joe Cronin helped Tabor by the recent suspension. Jim certainly looked the part of a mighty ball player as he knocked out four home runs against the Athletics on the holiday.

I saw the Bees win two from the Giants on July 4, and Casey Stengel's team was impressive. Say hello to the members of Commerce '11 and that includes Fred Allen who was a member of that class.

JOE NORTON.

Miller Shows Them

Eddie Miller, sensational Bees shortstop, refused to get upset because he wasn't named a member of the All-Star team. Miller has been playing as well as "Rabbit" Maranville did when the latter was at his peak. The Bees have plenty of strength down through the middle of their club with Lopez, Miller and Cuccinello and a flock of top-flight pitchers.

WALTER MULVEY, Lynn.

McCoy After Galento

I would like to fight Tony Galento in the Boston Garden in the fall with Jack Dempsey as referee. I believe such a match would prove their is still plenty of interest in boxing in Boston, provided the public is offered the right kind of matches

Youth does trick

It is youth that has given the Sox their batting punch. I refer to Ted Williams and Jim Tabor. Even admitting Foxx and Cronin are slipping, the young players will keep the club going until such time as Joe Cronin and Eddie Collins can develop the necessary pitching strength.

JAMES McGAULY, Quincy.

Random Shots at Target

AL SIMMONS' batting along with the return of Tony Cuccinello to the lineup have been important factors in the success of the Bees recently . . . Simmons, like most veterans, hits his stride in warm weather . . . The importance of Cuccinello to the success of the Bees was proved by the way the club slumped during the period its crack second baseman was out of the game with an injured knee . . . The Bees pitching staff has also rounded into form and will give rival batters plenty about which to worry.

Buddy Hassett has lived up to all advance notices . . . His batting and fielding have been of the best, while he possesses remarkable club spirit . . . In the early days of the pennant race, Hassett willingly played right field even though he preferred the first base patrol . . . Casey Stengel gave Elbie Fletcher every possible opportunity to make good at first base, and when he failed to do so he moved Hassett in at that position.

The Bees have a day off today . . . Then come the Phillies . . . Casey Stengel had better do a little bag punching so that he will be in condition for the Phillies.

PETS PLAY SOFTBALL CHAMPS

Boston softball enthusiasts will see the best team in the state tonight when the Fisk Rubber girls from Springfield play the Boston Olympets at the Garden in the feature game of a twin bill.

The Fisk girls won 26 games in 32 starts a year ago while clinching thes tate championship, and this season the up-staters have won nine and lost two.

The Pets, however, seem to be always at their best against championship opposition. They defeated the famed Roverettets of New York, who han been beaten in only one previous start, and last Thursday they turned back the Connecticut Yankees.

Helen Johnston, who has been out of the lineup because of illness, is slated to pitch for the Pets tonight. If she appears weak during the proceedings, Mary Pratt of ollaston, a southpaw, will take over.

The preliminary game tonight pairs the Gardenias with Ben Levias' Totem Pole girls from Norumbega.

It is the opening game in Metropolitan League competition.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6 (AP)—Connie Mack was well enough today to sit up in bed and worry more about his team than his temperature.

Improving steadily from the recurrent gall bladder ailment which felled him in Boston a week ago, the 76-year-old manager of the Athletics gets regular reports from the playing field.

Connie's sons say it may be some time, however, before he replaces them in the players' dugout.

YALE POLO CAPTAIN DIES AFTER SPILL

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—C. Mott Woolley, 22, captain of the 1939 Yale University polo team, died of concussion of the brain at the Neurological Institute today following a spill from his pony during a polo match yesterday at Meadow Brook Field, Long Island.

He was the son of Clarence M. Woolley, retired president and chairman of the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation. His home was in Greenwich, Ct.

Woolley, whose Yale team won the intercollegiate polo championship last month, was injured in the third chukker of a match between Broadhollow and East Williston when his pony tripped over the hind legs of a mount ridden by Winston Guest, the international star.

Woolley was dragged several yards as his pony slid along the slippery turf. He never regained consciousness.

Dr. Robert S. Millen, a spectator at the match, said an examination showed the youth had suffered a brain concussion.

He was taken first to the North Country Community Hospital at Westbury, L. I., and later removed to the Neurological Institute when his condition became critical.

The accident was the second bad spill in little more than a week. Billy Post, East Williston back, suffered a hard fall last week to disrupt the match between the two teams. He was replaced in yesterday's contest by Guest.

Pastor, Louis Sign Tomorrow

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs said today Champion Joe Louis and Bob Pastor, the former New York University footballer, would sign for a heavyweight title match tomorrow.

Although the promoter has not decided when or where the fight would be held, the chances are it will be over the 20-round route in Detroit in September.

Louis and Pastor fought in Madison Square Garden back in 1937, with Louis winning the decision in 10 rounds after Pastor back-pedalled most of the way.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Nationals won sixth All-Star game 4-1 on tight pitching and defense, with aid of four errors by Americans. Johnny Vander Meer credited with victory, Lefty Gomez charged with loss.

THREE YEARS AGO—Tabor Academy crew won Thames challenge cup defeating Kent School in All-American final, by four lengths over mile and five-eighths course.

FIVE YEARS AGO—Fred Perry, Britain, won All-England singles tennis title defeating Jack Crawford, Australia, 6—3, 6—0, 7—5 in final round.

June Breeze Rated Best At Taunton

By THE RABBIT

TAUNTON, July 6—For my safest wagering hazard on a fine card at the Taunton dog track tonight I am taking June Breeze to win the ninth race. True, Cavalcade Caress has the red blanket, but despite that fact I look for the Lippold hound to get out and win all the way.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY
(First Half Daily Double)
TIPSY—WHO'S WHO—IDLE ALONG

PP	Dog	Odds	Wt.	Owner
2	Tipsy	3-1	66	Toni Boone
8	Who's Who	4-1	60	Jack Adams
4	Idle Along	3-1	62	Tom Cook
5	Lady Tamara	6-1	68	G. H. Rogers
1	Jewel Flute	6-1	60	Forbe Spencer
7	My House Boy	6-1	64	Tom Baird
6	Miss Ruth E.	8-1	54	M. J. Govan
3	Upside Clo	8-1	58	Ted Lippold

TIPSY if it breaks should lead all the way with WHO'S WHO the main dangers. IDLE ALONG for the rest.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY
(Second Half Daily Double)
TRAFFIC JAM—THE TANGLER—DIXIE HARE

1	Traffic Jam	4-1	67	Seekonk Kennel
5	The Tangler	4-1	68	Pat Gaffney
6	Dixie Hare	4-1	51	Forbe Spencer
8	Kelly Drake	5-1	70	M. T. Dubiel
3	Cutie Mark	6-1	58	G. H. Rogers
4	Side Wheeler	6-1	62	Ernest Rhine
2	Joe Di Mag	6-1	60	Oscar Dahlberg
7	Joe Judge	8-1	69	Art Wilson

Not much difference between top three here and the break will decide it.

THIRD RACE—5-16 MILE
QUIZ—EVENTFUL LADDIE—HY-TONE

QUIZ won its last impressively and can repeat. EVENTUAL LADDIE may go well with HY-TONE in the money.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY
WISWALL—MARCH FAST—IOWA TAILSPIN

6	Wiswall	2-1	63	Hubert Bryant
1	March Fast	3-1	68	Jack Adams
5	Iowa Tailspin	6-1	64	G. Lippold, Jr.
7	Gold Flash	6-1	65	Otto Wahlauf
8	Jubilant	8-1	61	M. C. Sparks
3	Tony Boy	10-1	62	Fred Sweet
5	Template	10-1	69	Tom Baird
4	Glamorous Girl	12-1	58	Art Wilson

The top one's last was a dandy and repeated means a sure win. MARCH FAST could score with IOWA TAILSPIN always dangerous.

FIFTH RACE—5-16 MILE
ANDREW MEADOWS—RANGY RED—MARGE CLARK

2	Andrew M'dows	3-1	67	O. & R. Kennel
6	Rangy Red	4-1	73	George Deragon
1	Marge Clark	4-1	62	M. T. Dubiel
5	Court Scene	5-1	69½	Pat Gavan
7	Clean Caress	6-1	58	C. A. Rhodes
8	Mark Cash	6-1	71	Ted Lippold
4	Junta Go Ry	8-1	71	Fred Street
3	Liquid Fire	8-1	58	Cedar Pt. Ken.

The top one here has the class and should win with RANGY RED not far off. MARGE CLARK for what's left.

SIXTH RACE—5-16 MILE
PEGGY ACTOR—BRUISER—CRIMINAL COURT

8	Peggy Actor	4-1	49	Fred Palermo
7	Bruiser	4-1	65	Cedar Pt. Ken.
2	Criminal Court	4-1	65	Seekonk Kennel
6	Goodie G. Boy	5-1	70	J. L. Ayotte
4	Cameo	6-1	63	K. Stephenson
4	Bob Marshall	6-1	61	Clyde Eno
1	Ranaghard	6-1	57	Ernest Rhine
3	Silver Reb	8-1	61	M. C. Sparks

This dash should be to PEGGY ACTOR'S tendencies and she should head BRUISER to the wire with CRIMINAL COURT not far off.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
GUESS WHY—SCARRED LADY—NEW ISSUE

8	Guess Why	3-1	62	Forbe Spencer
5	Scarred Lady	4-1	53	J. B. Hatze
1	New Issue	4-1	59	Clyde Eno
7	Lucille Larry	5-1	51½	G. Lippold, Jr.
2	Installment	6-1	71	Seekonk Kennel
3	Temporary	6-1	64	F. B. Stutz
6	General Franco	8-1	70	George Deragon
4	Curly Cutlet	8-1	74	O. & R. Kennel

GUESS WHY has a slight edge here and without accident can win. SCARRED LADY will be running through the stretch with NEW ISSUE.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY
LUCKY SIR—MAD MONEY—MUTTON BROTH

3	Lucky Sir	4-1	60	J. B. Hatze
2	Mad Money	4-	59½	Ben Neal, Jr.
5	Mutton Broth	4-1	66	George Deragon
1	Cavalcade Car's	5-1	65	C. A. Rhodes
8	Traffic Glen	6-1	54	Frank Lane
6	Fly End	6-1	67	Seekonk Kennel
7	Handsome Pat	6-1	57	O. & R. Kennel
4	Tip Over	8-1	60	Cedar Pt. Ken.

The top one dwelt a trifle last out and then missed by scant margin. A good break means it all with MAD MONEY the chief threat. MUTTON BROTH in the money.

NINTH RACE—5-16 MILE
LUCKY CRIER—JUNE BREEZE—ARMY BANNER

8	Lucky Crier	3-1	63	O. & R. Kennel
3	June Breeze	4-1	53	Ted Lippold
1	Army Banner	4-1	63	J. B. Hatze
2	Cross-Sea Car's	5-1	65	C. A. Rhodes
5	GreyYork	6-1	68	M. C. Sparks
4	M'dam'ie's Chum	6-1	66½	Pat Gaffney
7	Dodge Truck	8-1	68½	Oscar Dahlberg
6	Local Court	8-1	68	F. B. Stutz

A close fit with LUCKY CRIER slightly the best dog for me. JUNE BREEZE is dangerous on the rail and ARMY BANNER is a hard dog to beat.

TENTH RACE—5-16 MILE
SO LUCKY—CLASSY TRAFFIC—FEEBLESS CAREER

3	So Lucky	4-1	59	Ben Neal, Jr.
7	Classy Traffic	4-1	64	F. L. Brants
4	Feebless Career	4-1	57	Pat Gaffney
2	Miss Hicks	5-1	56	John Highhouse
5	Lucky's Lucky	6-1	63	Paul Boone
8	Boob	8-1	59	Hubert Bryant
1	Apollo	8-1	59	Otto Wahlauf
6	Robert Ripley	8-1	68½	W. Leo Bryant

SO LUCKY has been running in top form of late and should score here with CLASSY TRAFFIC the chief danger. FEEBLESS CAREER should be in the money.

Old Timers Lineup Picked

Bill Carrigan, former helmsman of the Red Sox, and Fred Mitchell, who for several seasons piloted the former "Braves," have tentatively selected their starting lineups for the "Old Timers" ball game which will be played July 12 at Fenway Park under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

In Carrigan's lineup are included Speaker, Lewis and Hooper, the Red Sox outfield of 25 years ago, and Connie Mack's famous $100,000 infield, McInnis, Barry, Collins and Baker.

Fred Mitchell's National League team will include the grand old Hans Wagner, Frankie Frisch, Fred Tenney, Charlie Nichols and Grover Cleveland Alexander, besides possibly Casey Stengel and George Kelly of the Bees, and Heinie Groh.

Mistake was made by Mrs. Helen M. Patriarca, above, wife of Raymond L. S. Patriarca, paroled state prison convict, when she gave wrong address on her marriage intentions. Here she appears with counsel, Herbert Callahan, to correct her error.

Buried under tons of water today were four counties near Moorehead, Ky., and it was believed more than 100 persons had lost their lives in the cloudburst that resulted in inundation.
